"German Syrup"

I am a farmer at Edom, Texas. I have used German Syrup for six years successfully for Sore Throat, Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Pains in Chest and Lungs and Spitting-up of Blood. I have tried many kinds of Cough Syrups in my time, but let me say to anyone wanting such a medicine—German Syrup is the best. We are subject to so many sudden changes from cold to hot, damp weather here, but in families where German Syrup is used there is little trouble from colds. John F. Jones.

DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES CURED

CROOKS OF CHICAGO.

GATHERING A HARVEST FROM RURAL HAYSEEDS.

Many of Them Fall Into the Clutches of the Police and the Penitentiary in Rapidly Being Filled—Pictures for the Benefit of Visitors.

(Chicago Correspondence.)

PRESENT THE city of Chicago is the Mecca of the great gaud of thieves. One of the biggest thefts during the fair was on the opening day when, almost directly in front of the stand on which President Cleveland was presiding, the button to start the machinery of a thief, who is said to have been Antonio the Frenchman, took a wallet from the inside coat pocket of August Beckman from Montana containing $2,000.

A TRIO OF "DIPS"

No trace was found of his money, and he was compelled to return to Montana almost penniless. Antonio is known to but few of the secret service men, but many of the old-time detectives of the larger cities know his record thoroughly. Antonio is said to be the illegitimate son of an Italian countess, and his right name is said to be Gastelli.

When in funds and flying high, he is apt to turn up at some high-toned hotel and register as Count Luigi Gastelli of Florence. He has served terms in Sing Sing, Columbus and Joliet prisons.

Christopher Tallman, alias "Long Chris," is another expert at picking pockets that may be seen almost any day haunting the gates of the Exposition.

Many of the robberies that have been perpetrated upon strangers might be traced to him. He has been arrested times without number, but is clever enough never to be caught in the act or with the plunder on his person.

One of the worst thieves here is a newcomer to Chicago, named Barney Burch, alias Walden. He practices on the cable cars that run to the Exposition on the Cottage Grove Avenue and State street lines. Detective Norton recently caught him in the act of robbing a lady on a car. The officer grabbed the thief and was holding him until the arrival of a patrol wagon, when Burch dropped one hand into his pocket and drew forth a handful of red pepper, which he dashed into the detective's face. Blinded with pain, the officer had to let go, and the criminal darted up an alley and escaped.

Richard Preston, alias "Windy Dick," alias "Omaha Kid," another daring thief, has made several trips to the fair, and is undoubtedly responsible for some of the stealing that has occurred. Preston generally operates on the railway trains and leads what, in thieves' parlance, is called a "push"—that is, a gang of thieves—who create a sham fight and cause great excitement in a crowd. At such times the mob of pickpockets get in their work on the interested spectators.

George Carr, alias "Northrup's Kid," is one of the best-known thieves in the country, with a criminal record in most large cities. He is now out on that city.

A trio of crooks met J. W. McKenna of Chillicothe, Ohio, in front of the Auditorium hotel the other night, and after a few drinks at the hotel buffet, piloted him over to the Lake Front park, where "Red" Deane, the shell-walker, was manipulating the little joker. After failing to induce McKenna to bet on the game, Deane handed him a $50 note and told him he might keep it if he could show $100 of his own money. McKenna pulled out his roll and began counting it, when one of the gang snatched $85 from his hands and ran away with it.

George McFadden, a visitor from Idaho, came to Chicago with $1,000 and two fine diamonds in his shirt front. He made the acquaintance of two nice gentlemen. They escorted him about the city, showed him the sights on the levee and treated him to all the wine he wanted. At a late hour that night they escorted him into the web of Mike Bauer, an ex-convict, who ran a saloon on Wabash avenue. There a dose of drugged wine settled Mr. McFadden, and he was found the next morning wandering about near Garfield race-track in a dazed condition minus $300 and his diamonds. The thieves are still at large, but Bauer's place has been closed by the mayor.

Hardly a night passes, but the command, "Hands up," startles some beggarly peddler on his way home from a day at the fair.

lished the portraits of two clever for-crooks who came from London. These men first appeared at the Brooklyn races in the spring, where they were run down by Robert Pinkerton for picking pockets at the race track. As soon as they escaped from the clutches of the Brooklyn police, which they did by paying a fine, they came direct to Chicago. Frank Murray, superintendent of Pinkerton's Chicago agency, received their pictures from New York, and they were soon afterwards captured on the World's Fair grounds while endeavoring to "pull off" a diamond stud from a visitor. When arrested they gave the names of John Howells and Isaac Isaac, and have been identified as English crooks from Petticoat Lane, London. Inspector Shea stood them up so that every detective in the city could study their faces. They were then heavily fined and were told to leave the city.

Chicago excels in the number of young thieves that have made their debut during the fair. "Danny" Shay, a 16-year-old pickpocket, was arrested last week. An officer was watching the boy at the corner of Dearborn and Madison streets, and saw him snatch something from a lady's pocket.

He followed the child and arrested him in the act of investigating the contents of a purse, which contained quite a sum of money. The woman had disappeared, unaware of the fact that she had been robbed. Young Shay interrupted the officer while the latter was testifying against him in the police court, and said: "Say, ye didn't see me take the stuff, ye seen me lookin' at it, dat's all."

There is one thief in Chicago whom the police would be glad to get rid of, but they cannot induce him to go. "Slim Jim" Wilkinson has caused the police a world of trouble, and for years past about the only charge the police could bring against him was one of wickedness on general principles.

He has been fined and ordered to leave town by nearly all the police justices in the city. He simply defies them, and says they cannot drive him away. "Slim Jim" is not only a good "stall" for pickpockets, but also has quite a reputation at flim-flamming and as a confidence man.

Among the criminals of national reputation that are here now, or have been seen in the city since the World's Fair opened, are many noted confidence men, gold brick operators, shell workers, flim-flam gamblers, bogus check men, climbers, hotel thieves and room workers.

Such men as Ed Hennessey, alias "Big Ed," Bill Traylor, George Havel, alias Harry Thorne, Jack Cannon, Emanuel Marks, alias "Minnie Marks," James Carroll, alias "Nosey" Carroll, John, alias "Red" Deane, Joe Pryor, alias "Walking Joe," Ed Rice, "Soap" Burns, Billy Hopkins, "Old Bill" Corbett, "Scully" Jordan, John Harvey, "Brooky" Maguire, John Horner, alias "Old Horn," Frank Kinney, Roberta alias "The Gorilla," "Red" Hyle, Nick Moran, Micky Regan, George McDaniel, Paddy Quinn, "Tip" Farrell, "Yorke" Moore, Paddy Guerin, Henry Darrow, Capt. Ward, "Van Syke the Dip," "Connecticut Red," "Canada Johnny," Billy Hill, William Kerr, "The Dodger," Tom Leonard, Harry Webb and a host of others.

LOOK OUT FOR THESE GENTLEMEN.

"Minnie Marks" is an old-time professional, whose picture adorns every rogues' gallery in this country. He can be met with almost any night strolling along South State street, on the lookout for a victim, and is generally accompanied by John Cook, alias "Glasseyed Johnnie," a clever weak thief. Marks sprang into notoriety some years ago, when he was arrested by Inspector Hyman in New York and taken to Detroit for the robbery of the First National bank in that city.

A trio of crooks met J. W. McKenna of Chillicothe, Ohio, in front of the Auditorium hotel the other night, and after a few drinks at the hotel buffet, piloted him over to the Lake Front park, where "Red" Deane, the shell-walker, was manipulating the little joker. After failing to induce McKenna to bet on the game, Deane handed him a $50 note and told him he might keep it if he could show $100 of his own money. ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

Baking Powder, through the action of its ingredients upon each other in the loaf while baking, itself produces the necessary gas and leaves the wholesome properties of the flour unimpaired.

A Frog Story.

A Pennsylvania miner found a frog in a cavity in a lump of coal broken by him. He placed the frog in an air-tight pan. At first it showed no signs of life, but after being in the pan about six hours it began to move about. After ten hours' exposure to the light it was as lively as any modern specimen. In size the frog is much larger than the ordinary pond frog, and the color of the skin is brilliant. It weighs about three-quarters of a pound.

God can tell us things on a sick bed that he couldn't do in the third heaven.

Sorrow in the Near Future

Awake those who disregard symptoms of liver disorder. Be on time if you feel distress in the region of the liver, if your visage is yellow, eyeballs yellowish, tongue coated, or if you are troubled with constipation, sick headache and occasional dizziness. Rosetter's Stomach Bitters will banish these unpleasant symptoms, and should be used early and persistently. The bowels are relaxed without pain or griping, and are not weakened by it as they are by the action of a violent purgative. Digestion grows more active when the liver and the system invigorate, because it insures assimilation of the food constituents by the blood. Kidney complaints, malaria and rheumatism are overcome by this searching and thorough remedy.

He that speaks doth sow; he that holds his peace doth reap.

If your Back Aches, or you are all worn out, good for nothing, it is general debility. Brown's Iron Bitters will cure you, make you strong, cleanse your liver, and give a good appetite—tunes the nerves.

It is not so important that we should do God's work as it is that we should enjoy his rest.

"Sweet Charity."

In the Artists' Exhibition of 1893 at the New York Academy of Design, there was exhibited an oil-painting by J. L. G. Ferris, entitled "Sweet Charity." Its richness of coloring commanded instant attention, while the lesson it taught was so impressive that one naturally returned to it for a second view.

Its subject is a young lady of classical times who is on an errand to one of the poorer families of the town. She has a sensible, charming face, which expresses with remarkable fidelity the sentiment of her errand. There is not a home that this charming picture will not ornament. It must be seen to be appreciated.

"Sweet Charity" was purchased by the Publishers of The Youth's Companion and has been reproduced in colors in large size, 14x21.

It will be sent to all new subscribers to The Companion who send $1.75 for a year's subscription, and the paper will also be sent free from the time the subscription is received, to January, 1894, and for a full year from that date to January, 1895. This offer includes the Double Souvenir Numbers published at Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's. Address, THE YOUTH'S COMPANION, Boston, Mass.

Life is a succession of lessons which must be lived to be understood.

Small Government.

The territory of Missouri, between Germany and Belgium, was made independent in 1815. It has one policeman, no army, no elections, a territory of about two square miles and a population of about 5000. There is a senate of ten members and the mayor is appointed by two delegates, one from Germany and one from Belgium. The mayor appoints the senate.
